

Context 1: "In tales of old and customs new, Wisdom shines in all we do."

(a) What does the poet mean by tales of old and customs new?

👉 The poet means that both ancient stories and modern traditions carry wisdom and teach us valuable lessons.

(b) Why do you think the poet mentions both old and new customs?

👉 The poet includes both to show that wisdom is found in every generation — the past teaches us lessons while the new brings creativity and growth.

Context 2: "Festivals burst with colour and light, Showing cultures' creative might."

(a) What image does the poet create with these lines?

👉 The poet paints a lively and joyful image of festivals filled with colors, lights, and celebration.

(b) What does 'creative might' refer to in this context?

👉 It refers to the creativity, talent, and imagination of different cultures expressed through their festivals.

(c) How do festivals contribute to cultural connections according to the poem?

👉 Festivals bring people together, promote understanding and appreciation of each other's traditions, and strengthen unity.

Context 3: "This knowledge chest, for us to share, Shows smart ways that people care."

(a) What does the poet mean by 'knowledge chest'?

👉 It means the valuable collection of cultural knowledge, traditions, and wisdom passed down through generations.

(b) How does sharing this 'knowledge chest' show that people care?

👉 Sharing cultural wisdom helps people understand and respect one another, showing kindness and care for others.

(c) Why does the poet refer to these as 'smart ways'?

👉 Because learning and sharing traditions make people wiser and more understanding — that's the "smart" way to live together peacefully.

Context 4: "From grandmother's songs to mother's cuisine, Traditions paint a vibrant scene."

(a) What role do family members play in preserving traditions according to these lines?

👉 Family members, especially elders, keep traditions alive by passing them on through songs, stories, and food.

(b) How does the poet describe traditions in this context?

👉 The poet describes them as colorful and lively — a "vibrant scene" full of joy and meaning.

(c) What does the phrase 'vibrant scene' suggest about cultural traditions?

👉 It suggests that traditions make life beautiful, colorful, and full of diversity.

C. Answer the following questions

1. How does the poem portray the relationship between old and new customs? Explain with examples from the poem.

👉 The poem shows that both old and new customs are valuable. Old tales give wisdom, and new traditions bring creativity. Together they make our lives rich and meaningful.

2. Describe how the poem uses imagery to convey the idea of cultural diversity.

👉 The poet uses images like "festivals burst with colour and light" and "traditions paint a vibrant scene" to show the variety and beauty of different cultures.

3. What role do festivals play in cultural connections according to the poem? Discuss their significance.

👉 Festivals help people from different places come together, celebrate, and understand each other's traditions, strengthening unity and cultural bonds.

4. What does the poem suggest we should approach learning about different cultures? Why is this important?

👉 The poem suggests we should learn with open minds and hearts. This is important because it helps us grow wiser, kinder, and more understanding.

5. Explain the metaphor of 'bright stars' used in the poem. What does it represent?

👉 The “bright stars” represent valuable lessons from history and culture that continue to shine and guide us even today.

6. How does the poem connect personal growth with cultural understanding? Give examples from the text.

👉 The poem shows that learning about other cultures helps us grow personally and become wiser. Lines like “With open minds, we learn and grow” express that cultural understanding makes us better human beings.
